A Kettle Falls Orchard.

A box came yesterday from Mr. Aris who is now in Kettle Falls enjoying a short visit with his family. During his visit he secured a number of fruit specimens from the ranch of Mr. Harvey and they are now on exabilities one-half. In the case of steamers the cank where the public are cordially nvited to call at any time and examine

The fruit was necessarily nicked be-in other words, the lives lost were fore reaching upe maturity and full equal to 0.57 per 100,000 tons of steamfrom the long distance in a better state of preservation. Mr. Aris states that had be arrived ten days earner be could have secured fine cherries and larger peaches, but the latter are too mellow to ship. He will bring with bun specimens from forty different rines and a collection of grains, grass, te. Each branch of fruit sent was icked with fruit hanging and careully wrapped so as to show the wonenful yield of fruit.

Among the fruit received were two branches from the apricot tree, each one foot long and containing over fifty apricots on each limb. Green prunes are fruit never seen in Grand Rapids before, Mr. Ams sent a limb one foot long containing thirty-Island greenings were hanging and from a stem eight inches long twenty-four plams hung temptingly. Another specimen sent contained russet pears, and on a limb eighteen inches long forty big, luse ous plums were ripening when picked.

most any spot in this country.

The peaches sent by Mr. Aris came from a 5-year-old tree under which there were thirty-eight props to support the heavily laden limbs.

The 6-year-old apricot trees will bear

100 pounds this year and bring in their local markets 15 cents per pound. The market price on plums are 124 per pound, pears $3.50 per bushel, apples 5 and 6 cents per pound, beans 6 ents per pound.

The apples came from a tree eight years old which will yield 800 to 1,000 Grapes hang as full as there is lace to put them on the vines.
With its great fruit grain, mineral and other resources, Kettle Falls opens up a magnificent future to the home seekers and the wealth gatherer. "The thermometer at this time," writes Mr. Aris, "ranges from 78 to 80 in the shade, the evenings are always cool. The hunting season is now on and game may be had in abundance. I bought a quarter of venison, the fines you ever saw, for 50 cents, and there i no end of salmon, brook trout, grouse, prairie chickens, etc."
